

What they say...

Sarah Pratt - Sports Officer

“Being on Fylde JCR as sports officer has been a brilliant experience and something I hope that the person following me enjoys just as much and gains as much as I have. Prior to being on the JCR I felt I was a good multi-tasker, but you learn what it means to be part of a team and work together with different people on a new level. With Legends coming round the corner, this will be the perfect time for anyone interested in the role to get a feel of what you can expect. Legends’ is one of the most exciting weekends of the University calendar and I am so proud to be part of arranging in it this year!”

Tom Skinner - Sports Officer

“As well as gaining experience by organising such an event as the Legends Shield, it has also helped me to give back to the college. Aside from my specific roles as sports officer, helping out with the JCR as a whole is also a big part of what I have done. Overall, I have really enjoyed my time on the exec and encourage anyone who is interested in sport and passionate about Fylde to run for this position.”

Matt Triggs - Academic Officer

“The Academic Officer should be a helpful hand and a quiet word to those that need it, and equally a loud voice on issues that affect students. Most importantly, in my opinion, is a desire to help people and improve Lancaster University. It isn’t a position where you should just react to issues presented, you should be pro-active. I’ve found that a lot of the work that I have done hasn’t been glamorous, but it’s been rewarding and I sincerely hope that you would consider running for this role.”

Jordan Finneran - Communications Officer

“The role of Communications Officer is to promote the college at all levels, in particular through the college’s digital media, from the website to the social media accounts. They are also responsible for liaising with the SCR on college email and keeping a photographic record of all the events the JCR put on. I have absolutely loved my time on the JCR Exec, and would recommend this to absolutely everyone.

It’s a great chance to get involved and give something back to the college, as well as help welcome next years Fresher’s which will be a large part of this role over summer. If you have any questions or want to know a bit more about this role. Don’t hesitate to get in contact with me via Facebook or email (j.finneran@lancaster.ac.uk).”

FYLDE JCR EXEC ELECTIONS

The JCR exec is formed by a group of students who are elected for positions of representation, necessary to the management of the college's social life, welfare, sports activities and as a voice for all students of the college in various cross-campus discussions. First and foremost the JCR exec is a team that works in the interest of Fyldeans and welcomes interaction and communication with the members of our college. If you are interested, these elections give YOU a chance to run for one of the positions listed below.

To nominate yourself, go to the fylde.lusu.co.uk/elections-2013/
